

Magill Street boom gate installation – final works from Friday 3 March 2023

Following commencement of footings and services works in early February, final works to install the boom gate at the intersection of Magill Street and Hospital Road will be undertaken from Friday 3 March for approximately three days, including Saturday 4 March and continuing the week beginning Monday 6 March, weather permitting.

Activities will include:

- construction vehicle movements
- lifting of associated structural supports
- installation of boom gate system
- power and comms connections (including saw cutting of asphalt).

All lifting works are scheduled for Saturday 4 March and will be completed from within Loading Dock 7 and Hospital Road, with traffic control in place. Access to Magill Street properties will be maintained at all times.

The boom gate will be activated when the new Prince of Wales Hospital Acute Services Building opens to patients.

Once operational, the boom gate will be open between 7am and 10pm to enable efficient access between the campus car park and new Emergency Department. The boom gate will be closed after hours to restrict through traffic and support improved amenity for residents.

For the duration of the installation works and until the boom gate becomes operational, access to Magill Street will be limited to residential vehicles and construction equipment, and the Magill Street/Hospital Road intersection will remain closed.
