Managing construction activities

The health and safety of patients, families, visitors, staff, site workers and the community is our top priority.

We are working closely with Transport for NSW, CBD and South East Light Rail, Randwick City Council and UNSW to manage any impacts of construction in the area. Truck movements will be reduced during peak times to minimise impacts to local roads.

Strict environmental and planning regulations are in place to manage impacts including noise, dust and vibration.

Upcoming activity

Activity	Description
Installation of Botany Street and Hospital Road site gates	Construction vehicle access to the site will predominantly occur through two access gates on Botany Street. Gate installation will occur late November commencing with Gate 2, adjacent to UNSW Gate 11. Gate 1 will then be installed to the north. Each gate will take approximately one week to install. An exit only gate that will be used by light vehicles will also be established on Hospital Road in early December. To establish the gates, restructuring of the existing kerb and creation of new driveway is required. This will include machine and manual digging, concreting and installation of the gates. All traffic lanes will remain open during this work. Pedestrian access will be maintained under the support of traffic control.

About the project

The NSW Government is investing $720 million to strengthen the Randwick health and education precinct as a world-leading centre for health and wellbeing, research, education and teaching.

A new Prince of Wales Hospital Acute Services Building will be built in Stage 1 including an adult emergency department, extra beds, intensive care unit, and new operating theatres for the campus.

The Acute Services Building will open in 2022.

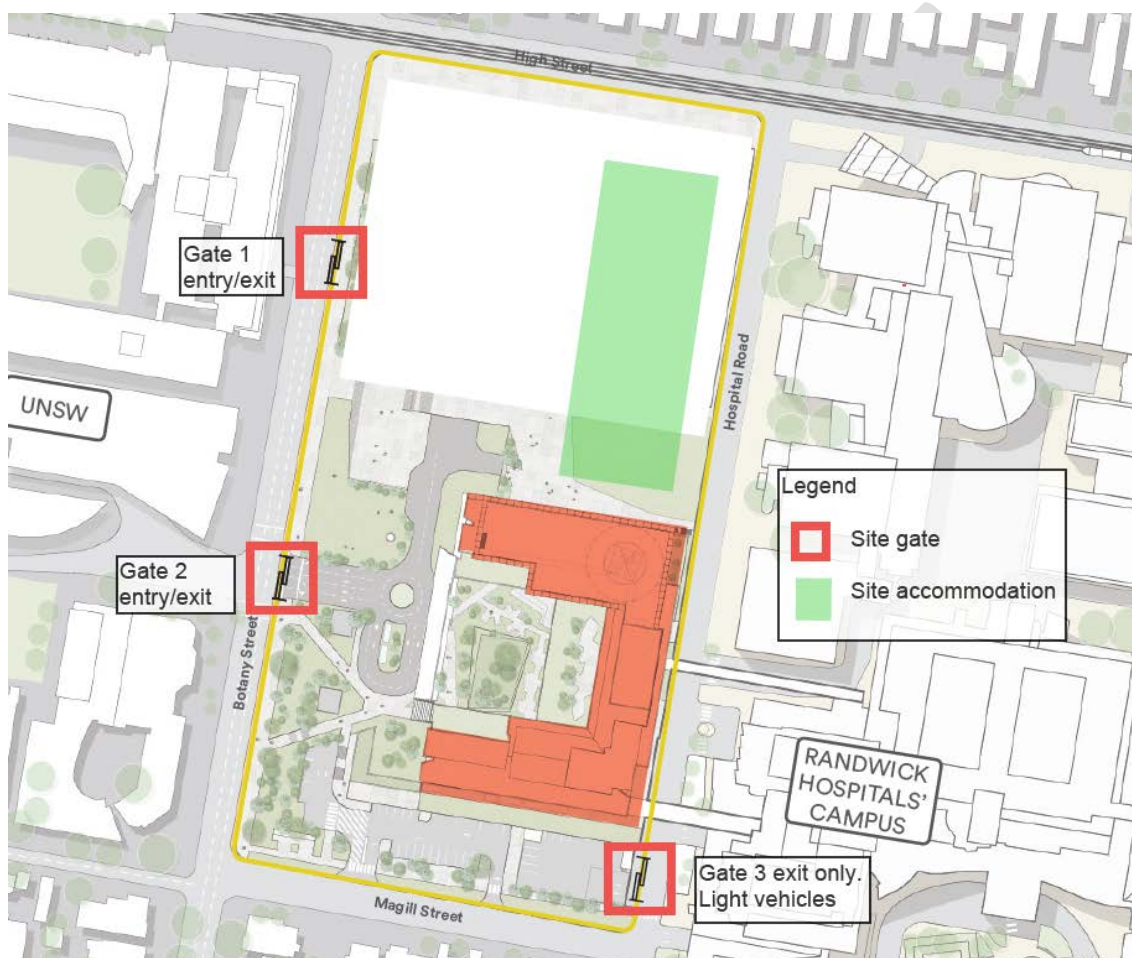

Delivery and installation of site accommodation

Site worker accommodation and project offices will be located within the site boundary. The sheds are built off site and initial deliveries will occur in early December with further deliveries in January. Preparation works for installation will commence in November.

The sheds will be delivered on an oversized vehicle and outside of standard work hours. The delivery will be made via the Botany Street gates under the support of traffic control. A crane positioned within the site boundary will lift the structures into place.
